

All of us have seen many shunt complications. A shunt tube extruding through the mouth is very rare. Possibly in this case the tip of shunt must have perforated intestine or stomach wall and therefore it is coming out through mouth during an episode of vomiting.