

Tide and time wait for none- is an old saying and this will stand true for ever. ISAT trial made a big leap possible for interventionists. Further intrusion into subjects like stroke are happening, where lot of reports are coming on mechanical extraction of clot in the window period, which is being changed from earlier 3 hours to 9 hours or even beyond that, are new developments which are not really supported by very good evidence. If neurosurgeons do not diversify into these fields themselves, they might have to opt for a different kind of profession.
